Minutes

1. Attending: Dave Bush (Board Liaison to Technology Committee), Alice Cave (Board Liaison to Communications Committee and Technology Committee member), Sarah Clark (Parkfairfax Assistant General Manager), Rick Fletcher (Technology Committee Chair – Moderator), George Gardner (Parkfairfax General Manager), Jan Schrader (Communications and Technology Committee member), and Barbara Wilmer (Communications Committee Chair).
2. Discussion Items
 - a) Parkfairfax December website administrator report from Elaine Hussain (dated Dec. 1, 2011).
 - The December website administrator report is found as an appendix to this report.
 - Committee page updates – Elaine updated committee pages based on chairs’ inputs to her, and added a WGG committee page based on Rick’s input.
 - Other changes – Elaine made various other updates/edits based on website audit feedback.
 - Requests for WGG action – none.
 - Statistics:
 - 497 owners and 58 residents have requested, and received, accounts on the new site.
 - Website page hit statistics for December 2011 indicate significant usage of the website, and are included as a separate appendix to this report.

- b) Completion of in-progress quarterly website content audit.
 - Recap: the WGG began our first quarterly audit of website content in early November 2011.
 - Goal: ensure that key website content is a) accurate, b) current, and c) necessary.
 - Status:
 - Audit was completed at the end of December 2011,
 - Board Minutes and Administrative Regulations (ARs) – Alice found a couple of points that needed updating, and communicated these to Elaine who made the updates.
 - Committee Pages – Rick contacted committee chairs and various committee pages have now been updated by Elaine per the chairs’ responses; WGG now has a committee page of its own with content submitted by Rick.
 - Announcements – Elaine audited these and removed outdated ones.
 - Photo galleries – Jan and Barbara coordinated updates of website photo galleries with Elaine such that a new “Holiday Tree Lighting” gallery was created.
 - Website links and other content – Barbara Wilmer and other WGG members found a few issues re completeness, accuracy, “dead link” behavior, etc., notified Elaine about them.

- c) Enhancement request: adding contact information for APD liaison Officer Hurrin on the website
 - Purpose: Facilitate ability of Parkfairfax owners and residents to contact Officer Hurrin.
 - Discussion:
 - A lively debate about not only the original enhancement request, but also what police or crime-related information should be displayed on our website, was held.
 - Attendees expressed concerns that we may need clarification from the Board as to what crime-related information our website should display.
 - Most of this debate was more relevant to the “Sign Up for Alerts” enhancement, and is covered in the section about that enhancement (later in this report).
 - Consensus: we should create a new website page to display contact info for Officer Hurrin and the Alexandria Police Department, with this contact information limited to that which is already public information for Parkfairfax owners/residents.
 - Action:
 - The enhancement, as redefined to encompass a new page that consolidates police contact information for Parkfairfax website users, was approved.
 - The new page will be titled “Police Resources” page, and will be accessible both from the “Resources” drop-down menu, and as a “Quick Link” item on the home page.
 - On this page, put contact phone numbers and email address for Officer Hurrin that are already shown in each month’s Parkfairfax newsletter.
 - Also on this page, put or have links to contact information for the Alexandria Police Department, notably the non-emergency and emergency phone numbers.
 - The WGG asks the Parkfairfax site administrator to make these changes as time permits.

- d) Enhancement request: improving the “RSVP to Event” functionality already on our website.
 - Purpose: To either improve “RSVP to Event” to support site users’ responding to actual events, or disable/remove the functionality until/unless it is deemed useful.
 - Discussion:

- Background here is that “RSVP to Alert” was implemented in a website prototype but never built out for the final website, such that current behavior is to display a list of placeholder events and not support site users’ responding to them.
 - Consensus was that at this time, “RSVP to Event” was not particularly useful to site users, and thus could safely be removed from the website’s “Contact” menu.
 - Action:
 - The enhancement action, removal of “RSVP to Event” menu item from the “Contact” menu, was approved.
 - The prototyped “RSVP to Event” functionality that is currently implemented should not be deleted at present, as we may revisit it later if/when it is deemed worthy of build-out.
 - The WGG asks the Parkfairfax site administrator to make these changes as time permits.
- e) Enhancement request: improving the “Sign Up for Alerts” functionality already on our website.
 - Purpose: To either improve “Sign Up for Alerts” to support sending alert email messages to signed-up users, or disable/remove the functionality until/unless it is deemed useful.
 - Discussion:
 - Background here is that “Sign Up for Alerts” was implemented in the final website to allow users to sign up for email messages about urgent events, but current behavior does not use the list of signed-up users to actually send them alert emails at this time.
 - On an earlier Parkfairfax site, another “alerts” facility was tried for about a year and then terminated; our new site’s “Sign Up for Alerts” functionality has no relationship to this earlier facility or its back-end processes or its costs/issues.
 - Management is receiving, and saving, contact information for site users who have signed up for alerts via our website.
 - We broadly discussed what events warrant alert emails, and what new process needs to be put in place to support identifying these events and then emailing the alert messages.
 - While much of the debate centered on alerts for crime-related events, the committee also noted that many other types of events (e.g. related to storms or other urgent impending/occurring matters impacting site users) also could warrant alerts here.
 - Dave spoke for many of us when he cited the recent car-jacking on Gunston Road as an example of an event that warranted an alert, since a) it had high impact on residents, and b) it would have been much better to put out an accurate alert vs. have residents rely on third-hand accounts of the event which may or may not have been entirely accurate.
 - We also discussed differences between the site’s current “Announcements” functionality and a built-out “Sign Up for Alerts” functionality:
 - “Announcements” notify site users of current events important to Parkfairfax.
 - In order to use “Announcements”, a person must be viewing and (depending on the level of the announcement) logged in on our site; thus, a user must actively “pull” an announcement from our site by viewing and possibly logging in to the site.
 - “Announcements” are reasonably current, but not meant to serve as urgent alerts.
 - Email alert messages supported by “Sign Up for Alerts” would be “pushed” to signed-up users during time-sensitive windows for events warranting urgent alerts.
 - Email alert messages are specifically “opt-in”, only to users who sign up for them.
 - This discussion identified outlines of what back-end management process the website would need to integrate with in order to have alert emails sent to signed-up users:

- Management would need to promptly identify events that warrant alerts.
- Management needs clear criteria to enable doing this quickly and accurately.
- Management would then need to draft and send email alerts in a timely-enough manner, given the time-sensitive criteria for each alert (e.g. if an event warranting an alert has a time-sensitive window, management needs to identify that window and ensure the alert email is sent ASAP within it).
- Management would need to have staff resources dedicated to doing this on a priority basis, within the context of other work those staff members are already doing.
- The WGG believes that alerts are warranted for significant impending and occurring events, to inform signed-up users ASAP given an event's time-sensitive window.
- Consensus was that at this time, "RSVP to Event" should be tabled pending Board discussion of and advise to the WGG about a) whether they approved the idea of sending signed-up site users email alerts, and b) any concerns or constraints on this functionality.
- Action:
 - Changes to "Sign Up for Alerts" were tabled pending Board discussion.
 - George will draft a related agenda item for Board action at the January meeting.
 - The agenda item will cite the WGG's January report (i.e. this document), and ask for Board discussion and guidance on a) whether they approve the idea of sending signed-up site users email alerts, and b) any concerns or constraints on this functionality.
 - Based on Board guidance, the WGG will revisit "Sign Up for Alerts" at our next meeting.

3. Next Steps

- a) George will draft an agenda item for the January Board meeting re asking for discussion and guidance on our "Sign Up for Alerts" enhancement.
- b) Elaine will, as her work schedule permits, work on implementing the new "Police Resources" page and its links, and on removing the "RSVP to Event" menu item from the site's "Contact" menu.
- c) All WGG members will follow up on any lingering audit item actions or issues.
- d) The committee voted to cancel the February meeting due to schedule conflicts; our next meeting is Thursday, March 1, 2012 at 7:45 p.m.

4. This meeting adjourned at about 9:15 p.m.
